

David Lock

Superintendent

David has held various positions in construction since 2013. As a carpenter and foreman, he was responsible for delegating tasks for a three-man crew, scheduling subcontractors, ensuring safety compliance, and maintaining job records. He also has experience as a metal fabricator at a metal shop. At D+H, he is involved with planning, coordinating, and supervising on-site and off-site functions including scheduling, engineering, material control, day-to-day direction of administrative staff, supervising craft employees, and providing technical assistance for interpretation of drawings, as well as recommending construction methods and equipment.
